HEAVY TOLL OF LIFE AND PROPERTY TAKEN BY HONGKONG STORM

Most Violent Typhoon of Decade Strikes in Dark With Harbor Crowded—Four Ships Send Out SOS.—Litter Aground and Several Other Vessels Piled Up

HONGKONG, Sept. 2 (AP)—The most violent typhoon since 1926 lashed Hongkong early today, spreading marine time and land destruction. It was believed to have taken about forty lives. Fifteen persons perished when a fire caused by the hurricane trapped them in a Chinese tenement block.

Other casualty reports were compiled slowly, with indications that the total number of dead would be about forty.

SHIPS IN DISTRESS

Four ships in the harbor sent out SOS calls. The Japanese liner Asama Maru was aground in Junk Bay and the Kausing was aground off Green Island.

The harbor was crowded with shipping, including liners sheltering here because of the Japanese blockade of China's coast. The Chinese steamer On Lee piled up, first reports said, and a Government tug was sent adrift.

SCORES IN WATER

A witness said he saw scores of Chinese struggling in water, apparently having been forced from their ships. Waterfront shops were flooded waist deep, and revenue officers assisted civilians, many

FIERCE BATTLE NEAR ZARAGOZA

Loyalist Troops Reported Holding Rail Link—Insurgents Claim Successes

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 1 (AP)—Spanish Government troops occupied the Belchite railway station, southeast of insurgent Zaragoza, after a day of fierce fighting, a communiqué from the Valencia defence ministry announced to the air.

Complete domination of Belchite, a town of 4,000, would establish a railway link between the Government's fronts there and at Teruel, tip of the insurgent Aragon salient.

The infiltrating Government troops fought through a devastating curtain of aerial bombardment in their attempt to wrest the town from their foe.

ADVANCE IS SLOW

They occupied suburban heights, moved toward insurgent machine gun nests in a summary of the edge of Belchite, and continued a house-to-house advance in the suburbs on the west side of the town.

Insurgent reports earlier pictured Generalissimo Franco's men in a sweeping counter-offensive which had resulted in recapture of all territory taken by the Government in its drive against Zaragoza on the Aragon front.

Verigin was convicted after Mr. and Mrs. A. Erickson, of Roseland, testified he molested them on the Trail-Roseland highway.

PARISIAN-BORN TO MAKE HOME IN CANADA

"So this is Canada," says Jessie, the two and one-half-year-old camel (really a dromedary), as she was unloaded from the Canadian Pacific liner Beaverbrae, at Montreal. Jessie, so named by members of the crew, was born in the Paris Zoo, and is going to make her home at the Toronto Zoo. She was considered a good sailor, and ate three good meals each day.

DYNAMITE USED IN ATTEMPT TO CUT POWER LINES

ATTEMPTS to dynamite a high tension line of the West Kootenay Power & Light Company on the provincial highway near Glade, B.C., were reported to the Provincial Police yesterday by Inspector John Macdonald of Nelson. One pole was fired, but did not burn, while another was dynamited ineffectually. Details of the incident are being investigated by the Provincial Police. Meanwhile the affair was put down as another disturbance in the Doukhobor troubles at the Department of Customs and Excise here.

More Motor Cars and Passengers Arrive and Depart During 1937

Showing a considerable increase in the number of foreign and domestic cars entering and leaving the Port of Victoria for the month of August, 1937, over the same month of 1936, figures were released yesterday evening by the Department of Customs and Excise here.

During August, 1937, 2,227 foreign cars entered, while 3,057 passed out.

In the same time, 435 Canadian-owned automobiles reported in and 559 went out. In August, 1936, 2,437 foreign cars reported in and 2,739 left the port; while there were 358 cars of Canadian registry entered and 480 departed.

These cars brought in during August, this year, 7,884 foreign passengers and took 8,886 out; while Canadian passengers numbered 17,141 in and 17,855 out, as compared with 6,936 foreign travelers in and 7,778 out in 1936; and 1,032 Canadian passengers in and 1,366 out.

FIGURES FOR YEAR

Figures for the year to date show that a total of 6,814 foreign cars entered and 7,397 left the city with 11,63 Canadian cars entering and 1,832 going out. The figures for the preceding January to August 31 were 6,711 foreign cars in and 7,034 out, while there were 1,458 Canadian cars entering and 1,484 leaving.

These figures are the result of devising a more definite course of action to assure safety of British shipping in the Mediterranean, endangered since the Spanish civil war.

TO END ASSAULTS

The Cabinet is also expected to consider French proposals to end the series of assaults on neutral shipping the past few weeks.

British Scientist Visions New World Freed of Conflict

Sir Edward B. Poulton, President of British Association for Advancement of Science, Not Discouraged Because of Recent Happenings

NOTTINGHAM, England, Sept. 1 (P)—Despite the disappointments of late years the time will surely come when dreams of a world without war will come true, declared Professor Sir Edward B. Poulton tonight in his presidential address at the opening of the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

Sir Edward's theme was the history of evolutionary thought, a thoroughly annotated review of the progress of thought on organic evolution as revealed at past meetings of the British Association, and elsewhere.

GREATEST OF PROBLEMS

"Thoughts on the development of hidden powers by the educating influence of social environment" and Sir Edward in conclusion "suggested the greatest of the problems by which we are faced—the end of international war."

"Michael Foster, in his address at Dover in 1899, was led to believe that, 'happily, the very greatness of the modern power of destruction is already becoming a bar to its use, and bids fair—may we hope, before long—wholly to put an end to it.'

ENGLISH AND FRENCH

"He expressed the hope that the brotherly meeting between the English and French Associations at Dover and Boulogne might be looked upon as a sign that science, by nobler means than the development of armaments, was steadily working towards the same great

CALL MOVE FINISH FIGHT

San Francisco Waterfront
Virtually Cut Off From Inland Commerce

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1 (P)—Rolling picket lines of American Federation of Labor teamsters virtually isolated the San Francisco waterfront from inland commerce and threatened coastwise shipping complications today in an effort to force a slowdown in a controversy with C.I.O. elements.

Teamster leaders announced the drivers of 500 heavy waterfront trucks were ceasing work and that only perishables and goods already in transit would be moved to or from the docks pending settlement of the dispute.

FIGHT TO FINISH

The teamsters called their move a "finish fight" against C.I.O.-affiliated warehousemen, backed by equally strong C.I.O. longshoremen who have prevented the trucking of canned goods from a packing company involved in an alleged "lock-out" of seventy-five warehouse members.

Henry Schmidt, president of the local longshoremen's union, telephoned Secretary of Labor Francis Perkins asking an investigation. He asserted the entire port was threatened with a lockout and that the teamsters and the dairymen's association, an employer group, were "coining" in refusing to move goods to and from the dock.

Thus far the dispute has not penetrated to the lines of maritime workers.

Referring to the trans-Atlantic strike, Sir Richard said:

"We may confidently hope that this and other applications of pure science will tend to abolish wars over the whole earth, so that men may come to look back upon the trials of battle between misunderstanding nations as a sign of a past stage of comparative barbarism, just as we look back from our present phase of civilization in England upon the old border warfare."

"Confident words," declared Sir Edward, "inspired by the forging of a new link between the two great English-speaking nations. Nearly eighty years have passed since they were spoken, but with all the terrible disappointments there has been great progress, and a time will surely come, and may it come quickly, a time which shall prove that the visions of the young and the dream of the old were prophetic of a glorious reality."

Plentiful

ABOARD SS. NASCOPIE, Sept. 1 (P)—(C.P. by wireless)—A happy group of Eskimos greeted the Royal Mail steamer Nascope when the far northern supply ship entered Arctic Bay Monday. It demonstrated to Canadian Government officials the wisdom of transplanting Eskimo bands when food supplies run low.

The Eskimos were moved a year ago to a new settlement on Arctic Bay, off Admiralty Inlet on the extreme northern tip of Baffin Island. They came originally from the north shore of Hudson Straits, where the seals were scarce. They were settled at Arctic Bay after a year at Dundas Harbor, Devon Island, farther to the north.

CHICAGO EDITOR DEAD

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (P)—Dr. George H. Simmons, eighty-five, editor and general manager emeritus of The Journal of the American Medical Association, died today.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS CLOSED

CHICAGO, Sept. 1 (P)—A sharp increase in infantile paralysis cases inspired prompt action to forestall spread of the dread disease tonight.

The board of education met in emergency session and ratified a health department order deferring the reopening of Chicago schools until the current outbreak wanes.

That meant 615,000 students originally scheduled to resume classes next Tuesday and Wednesday, would continue their summer vacation indefinitely—possibly for another month.

Forty-two outdoor swimming pools in small parks were closed. Boy Scouts at three camps were urged to return to their homes. Theatre owners were urged to prevent crowding of children.

SITUATION SERIOUS

Dr. Herman N. Bundeisen, president of the board of health, reported 109 cases in the city during August, ten more than the previous high for the month, recorded in 1916.

Twenty-six fresh cases in the last four days—eleven in the last twenty-four hours—emphasized the growing seriousness of the malady.

The death rate so far, Dr. Bundeisen announced, was 16 per cent.

The United States Public Health Service reported for the first thirty-four weeks of the year 4,053 cases were counted, against 1,616 in the corresponding period of last year.

In forty-six states, for the week ended August 28, the health service listed 621 cases, compared with an average of 537.

IN MEDICINE HAT

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., Sept. 1 (P)—The number of cases under treatment here for infantile paralysis increased to eleven tonight as the second death from the disease was recorded.

He was supplied with complete details of relief administration here and promised to forward Mayor Mc-Gavin similar details on the Regina system.

HALT DRIVE FOR FORUM

Committee Decides to Postpone Campaign in Favor of Community Chest

The Victoria Forum Association, composed of members of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Gyro, Kinsmen and Reversers Clubs, announced yesterday the postponement of their campaign for funds until the early part of next year, at the request of the Community Chest Association, which felt that if the two major campaigns for funds in Victoria were held within a short time of one another, the chance of success of both would be jeopardized.

This action was taken after very careful consideration, particularly with regard to the very urgent cause of the Community Chest, Forum Promotion Committee officials declared.

The service clubs are in complete accord with the objective of the Community Chest, and in postponing their drive for funds will leave all members of the respective service clubs free to assist in bringing to a successful completion the objective of the public welfare drive.

NEED FOR FORUM

The directors of the Community Chest have pledged their support to the Victoria forum drive for the amount necessary to erect a forum in Victoria, and reiterate their feelings of the great necessity for such a building in the city. In this connection a prominent member of their directorate has consented to join the Forum Committee, thus giving assurance that the whole organization behind the Community Chest will give every assistance in bringing to a successful conclusion the forum objective, after their own drive has been completed.

It is further announced that the Forum Committee will meet regularly each month, thus keeping up their organization and plans, with a view to getting as early a start as possible in the new year.

FORMER RESIDENT CALLED BY DEATH

George E. Davidson Passed Away Monday at Toronto at Age Of Seventy-Five.

Word was received here yesterday of the passing in Toronto on Monday of George E. Davidson, who, previous to his departure for the East two years ago, had resided for more than forty years in Victoria.

He was for many years a highly respected resident of the Mount Tolmie district, where he lived on a small farm at the end of Richmond Road.

Mr. Davidson had been a sufferer for several years from arthritis, and left Victoria for the purpose of receiving treatment under Dr. Locke of Williamsburg, Ont. He showed some improvement for a time, but his age, seventy-eight years, was too great to permit of complete recovery.

He is survived by one son, Hugh, of Toronto, and by several brothers, all in Eastern Canada, while many friends in the city will mourn his loss.

During his residence here he was closely connected with the activities of the Shantymen's Christian Association, holding several official positions in the organization. He was also active in the Conservative party, of which he was a strong supporter.

Interment will be made today at Goderich, Ontario.

The American-manned cotton mill of the Wing On Company at Woosung were demolished, while the German-supported Tungchi University was razed for the second time since 1932.

Outside of the Shanghai area, Japanese progress in North China was reported held up by the Chinese resistance and by torrential rains.

To the south, the Government began concentrating 1,300 Japanese in Canton for protection following intense Chinese bitterness inspired by Tuesdays raids by Japanese warplanes.

It was said of a recent "prep" school graduate that one night he left a note on his door for his roommate who had gone to the movies. This bore the legend:

Novel Writing More Satisfactory Than Plays, Says Author

Robert C. Sheriff, Internationally Famous as Creator of "Journey's End," Making Brief Visit to City on Way Back to England

No professional writer can afford to write for the stage today because of the difficulty of getting an audience, says Robert Cedric Sheriff, internationally-famous author of one of the most successful of all post-war plays, "Journey's End," who arrived here yesterday for a short visit.

The people who in an earlier time would have been writing for the stage are now better writers for the screen. They pay better. But they are doing it at the possible loss of immortality, for very few people ever discover who the author of a screen play is," he said in the course of an informal interview given at the Empress Hotel last evening.

Although it was "Journey's End," written originally for amateur production, that brought Mr. Sheriff fame, and although he has since written other plays that have achieved a certain amount of success, including "Badger's Green" (a cricket play), "Windfall" and "St. Helena," it is as a novelist that he has experienced the greatest satisfaction.

RETURNING HOME

Accompanied by his mother, Mrs. C. Sheriff, the noted author is on his way back to England after his annual visit to Hollywood. Although he had been only a few hours in the city, he expressed his delight with Victoria, which he is visiting for the first time.

Seventeen years old when the war broke out, Mr. Sheriff served throughout with the East Surrey Regiment, in which he attained captain's rank.

Mr. Sheriff is at present occupying the pulpit of Westbourne Church, Glasgow. During his thirteen years there, he has received several calls to other prominent churches, one of them the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York. He has held numerous important posts in the Scottish church during his long ecclesiastical career.

DR. BURNETT, OF GLASGOW, ON MISSION TO STATE OF VICTORIA

Here for a brief stopover on board the R.M.S. Andania yesterday afternoon, Rev. A. W. Burnett, D.D., noted Scottish divine, and one of the two commissioners of the Church of Scotland to the Presbyterian centenary celebrations in the state of Victoria, Australia, described his present trip as "an evangelistic and preaching mission."

His pilgrimage on the trip had traveled to the Antipodes by the Cape route, he said, and the two were to meet in Melbourne before beginning a three-months' tour of the state.

Dr. Burnett at present occupies the pulpit of Westbourne Church, Glasgow. During his thirteen years there, he has received several calls to other prominent churches, one of them the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York. He has held numerous important posts in the Scottish church during his long ecclesiastical career.

PLANS FOR MISSION

Plans for the present mission, he declared, are to commence the preaching tour of Victoria with a service in Scots Church, Melbourne, on October 10. Following this, a month will be spent in visiting the Presbyterian churches, at the end of which period the main meetings of the trip in the form of mass congregations in Melbourne will be held. The anniversary services will continue throughout the state until December 26, when the mission will conclude with services of rededication at Melbourne. The return trip will commence on January 4.

While in Vancouver, Dr. Burnett preached twice on Sunday at St. Andrew's-Wesley United Church and addressed a public meeting on the subject, "Scotland, Grave and Gay."

He is accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Burnett.

INSURANCE MEN ENJOYED VISIT

Timberline Lodge to Be Next Gathering Place of Oregon Mutual Co.

The Leaders' Club of the Oregon Mutual Life Insurance Company will meet next year at Timberline Lodge, thirty miles east of Portland, Oregon, announced yesterday at the concluding luncheon of the convention, held in the Empress Hotel.

The honorary title of president of the Leaders' Club was awarded to W. H. Sheehy, Portland, largest producer for the year. The board of governors, composed of the next largest producers, in order of merit, were W. L. Lewis, Portland; Fred W. Tregaskis, Raymond; Wash. and E. Mark Deller, Eugene, Ore.

C. S. McElhinney, Salem, Ore., credited with the largest retention of business during the year, was also honored.

O. K. Quine, Roseburg, Ore., was presented with the gold trophy for winning the tournament held among members of the club.

In addition, the thirty-seven qualified leaders received bronze plaques in recognition of their work.

All delegates praised the cordial welcome they received in this city. W. C. Schuppel, executive vice-president, again spoke highly of the enjoyable time which had been spent here. Mr. Lewis, who has been successful with rod and line in local waters, will try his luck at Comox and Campbell River. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Lewis, also a keen, successful sportswoman.

Delegates to the convention left for home last evening on the 5 o'clock steamer for Seattle.

AN INTOLERABLE SITUATION

The incidents concerning the wounding of the British Ambassador to China by Japanese machine gun fire from an airplane, and the bombing of the American steamer President Hoover by Chinese airplanes, are probably just the precursors of other unsavory happenings in the Eastern war zone. There is an hysteria that enters into war giving rise to a carelessness that again and again has led to contumacy. In the Orient, where there are so many nations interested, so many foreigners domiciled and so much international investment, it is inevitable that the European Powers and the United States should become more and more involved because of the present struggle. If those Powers are ultimately to take any action it will be that the longer it is delayed the more serious the difficulties will become.

Even in Japan the question has been raised of that country's intentions regarding China. It is important, too, for the Powers to understand what they may expect out of the war; that is to the extent to which their interests will be damaged and their nationals endangered. Both have already come within the scope of the war and have suffered. Notwithstanding the presence of warships and troops at Shanghai for the protection of Europeans and Americans, that protection can only be afforded to a limited extent, as has been shown. The wounding of the British Ambassador to China was an incident that indicates no one may be immune from attack. The situation, therefore, has its intolerable features and the aims of the present war should be known. Otherwise the outlook is so chaotic that it may well mean that other Powers, whether they like it or not, will be drawn into the struggle for the protection of their own nationals.

SOCIAL CREDIT'S REBELLION

It is in the realm of gall and effrontery for Major C. H. Douglas to express approval of Premier Aberhart's decision to enforce disallowed banking legislation passed in Alberta. It is, moreover, an expression of cheek for that exponent of Social Credit to condemn the Canadian Government's action in disallowing the legislation. It was perfectly obvious when Major Douglas gave evidence before the banking committee of the House of Commons that he knew nothing about the nature of the Constitution under which Canada operates. He wants the experiment in Social Credit made in defiance of law, which, of course, proves him a rebel in fact as he is a visionary in theory.

The Constitution of Canada is a matter in which Major Douglas can have no concern. It is none of his business. For him to say that the Alberta Government "has begun to acquire a power over its own credit" shows a total ignorance of the situation. Nothing has happened towards this end, and Major Douglas could not possibly be in a position to anticipate the ultimate outcome of the impasse created by Premier Aberhart. The fact is that the Alberta laws dealing with banking and the right of appeal to the courts have been disallowed. There is no appeal against this decision of the Governor-General-in-Council. Premier Aberhart, therefore, cannot enforce the laws in question. If he attempts to do so, he is engineering a rebellion against the operation of the Constitution of the Dominion. Both he and Major Douglas have disposed of the idea, more than once expressed, that whatever the proponents of Social Credit would attempt would be kept within constitutional limits. Instead, it appears these are to be defied and the attempt made to find a lodgment for an insubstantial structure whose foundations have been built in the skies.

TAXES AND BUSINESS

At long last there seems a more widespread desire to awaken the people of this country to the results of the heavy taxation they are enduring because of governmental extravagance. This is illustrated by an article in Toronto Saturday Night by Mr. Albert C. Wakeman which is illuminating in many respects. He says that the taxing bodies of the country are taking $20,000,000 out of the working capital of the Dominion, $150,000,000 out of what the people save during the year and $680,000,000 out of what the people spend. There is approximately $850,000,000 collected each year in taxation, a condition which Mr. Wakeman regards as "very damaging to business and to the citizens as a whole."

The point which Mr. Wakeman seeks to stress is that this taxation does not all come out of current earnings. It comes from capital as well, and the serious thing is that the development of the country is being impaired. As Mr. Wakeman says, the earnings of the rising generation are being mortgaged "and we have gone one better and curtailed its earning possibilities." The figures of taxation show in some respects a "dead weight"—the levies which we pay because we have no choice in the matter, and which often go for purposes in which we have not the slightest interest, and from which we do not derive the slightest benefit."

There is a school of thought in the country that applauds succession duties, yet this form of taxation is "vicious" in its economic effects. These duties must be paid in cash, yet in so many cases estates are represented by property or investments in business or securities. The sale of these forced sale in most instances, depresses the market, which means a loss to every property holder or seller. When a business has to be wound up to pay the death duties, people are put out of work. Then there are the kinds of taxation that come out of current savings rather than out of accumulated capital. These are the income taxes imposed federally and provincially, and in some cases municipally as well. It is in this and some other cases that taxes aggregating $150,000,000 annually are paid out of savings, and as much is lost in development, for savings are the accumulations out of which new capital investments are made. In this respect Mr. Wakeman says:

"It is an old saying that we can't eat our cake and have it too." What we consume this year, in governmental or any other form of spending, can't be used to enlarge or create industries. And the round sum of $150,000,000 a year would make a fine lot of industries. It would add a Prince Edward Island to our nation each year, and Prince Edward Island is the happy home of 100,000 Canadian people. In a little over a decade, while it would duplicate the estimated wealth of the whole three Maritime Provinces, or that of the Province of Manitoba. That is the real price we are paying for extravagance in government. In our anxiety to provide future generations with a surplus of railways, a lot of social schemes and a League of Nations, we are depriving them of productive industries which would develop if capital were left free, and from which they could derive their livelihood in the future. The writer is not arguing as to which is right and which is wrong. He is merely pointing out that we cannot have the same cake for today's dinner, and also in the cupboard for tomorrow. What goes into taxes goes right out of profitable production and employment rising therefrom; and unfortunately we are taking part of it out of future production and employment."

PLAYING GAMES

Because an American tennis player was easily the best at Wimbledon, and because golfers from that country won the Ryder Cup, Mr. A. G. Gardiner, the well-known journalist, made these happenings the text of an article on the decline in English efficiency in sport. He did not take into account at all the fact that the Old Country is now as efficient on the track as any other country, that she has been able to produce a fighter that has stayed the limit with the world's heavyweight champion, and that still in many branches of sport she can more than hold her own. However, there is much wisdom in what Mr. Gardiner says, and much, too, for which the Old Country has to be thankful in the matter of its interest in sports and games of all sorts.

Gardiner, says Mr. Gardiner, are not an end in life but a means to an end. They are an equipment, a discipline and an exercise. Great Britain leads the world in the outlook of playing games for rational amusement and in caring but little for championships and the knowledge that a few people should play exquisitely and the rest not at all. He says that there is more golf and tennis played within fifty-miles of London than in any country on the Continent. Why other nations produce champions who beat the English is often enough because they have caught the infection of games and are throwing themselves into them with the fervor and passion of a new revelation. "They have not," says Mr. Gardiner, "taken them up where we began. They have skipped the long preliminary, we had to go through in bringing them to technical perfection, and are competing with us with all the energy of youth and ambition." Great Britain is now experiencing in sport what she is experiencing in industry. She no longer has a monopoly and must live on her merits.

In writing of tennis, Mr. Gardiner does not think the standard of play today in England is inferior to that of the days of the Dohertys, but the difference is that all the world is now searching for Dohertys, and is putting them through the mill of training with a thoroughness to which our easy-going habits are alien.

Nothing, however, can deprive the British people of the glory of having taught the world to play games or the credit of having taught it to play them in the right spirit."

It is a false principle that because we are entirely occupied with ourselves, we must equally occupy the thoughts of others. The contrary inference is the fair one—Hail!

Note and Comment

By Sandham Graves

Bearing in mind that what is ideal is not always practicable, the British Columbia Forest Service is to be commended for its continued studies this year of the difficult question of the disposal of the debris left in the forest after necessary logging operations. This paper goes right to the crux of the problem of reforestation by natural means, and reforestation by artificial means would cost huge sums were that ever necessary. The problem is one with many sides, and technically difficult for a number of diverse and practical reasons. Every interest stands to gain if the removal of forest cover is replaced by natural regeneration, so that in spirit at least there will be general respect for what it is that the Forest Branch is trying to do. The branch, incidentally, sent its best men into the woods on a series of studies, and will no doubt have something both practical and comprehensive to lay before the Government and the Legislature in due course. Meanwhile, it will not injure the cause of intelligent conservation to repeat what has so often been said, and far more ably, before. Coniferous trees, like other crops, grow to maturity, pass their peak, and decline both as the parent trees for young seedlings and as commercially valuable timber. The process, even with the prolific rainfall and ideal growing conditions of the Pacific Coast, is a relatively long one, involving a century or more, depending on species, use and other factors. In growing, the forest makes a natural selection of its strongest trees, killing far more trees than are ever permitted to mature. Fires, disease, wind and other scourges take their toll, long before man comes to fill his reasonable and normal requirements; and, sometimes, man is not satisfied with what is reasonable or normal. The ideal forest would be thinned, just as a bed of carrots is thinned by new plantings; and farmed as a crop for its annual yield. The ideal, however, is not easy to bring about, though under vastly different conditions and much greater necessity, some European countries have nearly done so. In British Columbia today the annual cut is heavy, natural regeneration is failing behind, and any means that will correct this visible trend will be valuable. Non-regeneration has been blamed in part on retarded slash-burning, which, may consume as many as three years' seeds in one fire, as well as leaving the surface of the ground unfitted for reproduction. Supervised slash disposal is now suggested, and if a practical formula can be found for that course it should be welcomed by all interests concerned. Forests will perpetuate themselves with care; without care they can be eliminated entirely, leaving an arid land "deprived" of its rainfall and its soil, a desert in name and in fact.

It is a discernible trait in man to seize on part of a case, without much thought as to the balance. Discussion as to the need for otherwise for examination of motor drivers before they are given licences is one example. Such examinations might help to retard the accident toll on the highways by the elimination of those with defective eyesight or other physical handicaps, but no such examinations will reach the root of the problem, individual responsibility of the mind and unwavering habits of caution. To put it another way, if you could teach man to be prudent and careful in nearly all respects, that would be a gain; but one not easily reached. I have at least the suspicion that responsibility or lack of it is engendered in the individual who takes a chance in an automobile, is the individual who takes a chance in swimming, in business, and everywhere else in life. An examination for his motor licence might impress upon him the need for caution with a moving vehicle of one ton weight, and if that would be a gain; but one suspects the lesson will not be permanent, that habit is the ruling god. Despite this, it is probably true that the more attempts that are made to bring safety to highways, the more impression may one day be made on the character of man as a thinking animal. It is a little ironical that at the same time as traffic licence examinations are proposed, we are engaged as a province in eliminating fractional curbs and building speedways which are not only popular but much in use for the purpose of speed, without purpose.

The trouble with holidays is their impermanence, and that probably is also their charm. This column has enjoyed the supreme pleasure of not

A Great Salmon Catch—The salmon pack in the Columbia River this season will probably reach 100,000 cases or 4,000,000 pounds. That is fully 30 per cent better than the pack of 1936. The pack of 1936 was off the mark, and the pack of 1937 is off the mark. The transverses do not run the fish, and Senator Corbett thinks that the United States Government is well taken care of in this regard. The salmon is in hand, especially, as the Columbia River is the dividing line between Oregon and Washington territories.

Great Britain looked remarkably prosperous, Mr. Whitelock stated. The building boom, started several years ago, still continues, and new buildings are in evidence everywhere. Men, versed in the building trades, are at a premium, and there is little sign of unemployment. The people of Great Britain may not be anxious for the conflict which many predict is inevitable, but they are certainly well-prepared for any eventualities. Means for defending the country are not wanting. It was quite an experience to see the number of defence airfields busy over all sections of the British Isles.

CALM OF GERMANY

Mr. Whitelock was impressed with the calm of Germany. People there were apparently attending to their own business, on the surface, any way, with very little evidence of war preparations in sight. As far as crowds were concerned, there were no more people seen on Unter Den Linden at any one time—than one sees on Government or Douglas Streets during the busier hours of the day. All were well dressed, too, and seemingly content. The soldiers were all clean cut, young fellows, well equipped with smart uniforms, a decided contrast to the uniformed men he saw in France, who looked tired and wore clothing anything but new and well kept.

One thing that impressed the returned traveler greatly from the train windows in Germany was the intensive measures adopted for growing foodstuffs. While there was always a little showing of flowers in sight, practically all the available soil in house-gardens and farm fields was utilized for production of vegetables and grain.

VISITED THE CLYDE

While on the other side of the Atlantic, Mr. Whitelock visited the Clyde, where the sister ship of the Queen Mary is now well underway. He also saw the 30,000-ton liner built for his company, which will be launched in 1938. He returned to America on the Queen Mary, and stated she was pretty well booked in all classes. The Cunard Company had had a wonderful season's business, and there was every promise for it continuing through the coming winter.

In Great Britain, Mr. Whitelock stated he had met a number of importers of British Columbia apples, all of whom assured him they were Colonel K. W. Savory, Vancouver, Imperial president of the Imperial Veterans Association, asked all Imperials to support the organization without ceremony so that it could obtain a charter, in an address given to a large gathering of the local branch at the Knights of Columbus Hall last night.

He declared that the hope for Imperials in Canada at the present time lay in the association, and added that it was rapidly gaining in membership and influence throughout the Dominion.

Past experience had proved that there would be little assistance forthcoming for the Imperial veterans in this country either through the Canadian Legion or the Canadian representatives of the British Government and the British Empire Service League, as these bodies are at present organized, he declared.

He pointed out that the refusal of branches of the Imperial Veterans' Association to sanction conditions on their premises was a witness to their sincere desire to be of real assistance to ex-service men.

TO BETTER CONDITIONS

"With the Vancouver branch increasing its membership at the rate of 100 a month, and others of the 100 branches in Canada making like progress, we have hopes that definite steps to better the conditions of the Imperials here may be made at the next session of Parliament at Ottawa," he said. He also stated that H. Lawrence, an M.P. in the British House, was going to bring the matter of aid for Imperials to the fore at the earliest opportunity.

Colonel Savory said he considered the forthcoming visit of J. R. Griffin, a representative of the B.E.S.L. to investigate Imperials' problems here, would mean little for the cause of ex-service men. He thought the $25,000 that had been obtained recently for Imperials in Canada was entirely an inadequate amount.

Following the address and a question period, a social entertainment and refreshments were provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

United States Men's and Women's Singles Billed
At Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Sept. 1 (P).—Graced by the strongest and best balanced entry lists of recent years, the United States men's and women's singles championships will open tomorrow afternoon on the stadium, grandstand and field courts of the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills.

There will be daily competition and elimination, weather permitting, until the starting groups of 100 men and sixty-four women are reduced to the finalists in each division, Saturday, September 11.

Strongest candidates for the men's championship won last year, and three times out of the last four by England's Fred Perry, now a professional, are: Don Budge of Oakland, Calif., and blond Baron Gottfried von Cramm, of Germany.

The Hudson's Bay cricket team moved out in front in the Payne Cup series yesterday, when they trounced St. Michael's School, 150 to 34, at MacDonald Park. It was the second setback of the season for the students and dropped them one game behind the leading Bay eleven.

Playing at Beacon Hill Park, Victoria came through with a 132 to 92 triumph over the Five C's.

Deadly bowling by J. Hesketh, who took eight wickets for ten runs, paved the way to victory for the Hudson's Bay. Symons, with eleven runs, was the only member of the school side to reach double figures. Turner batted well for the winners, knocking up forty-five runs before being caught by C. K. Syphons off Hincks' bowling. Doug Fletcher put on a useful thirty-eight, while J. Hesketh, seventeenth, and P. Tyrrell, tenth, were the only other batsmen to score many runs.

The batting of Vic Moore and P. Austin, who scored fifty-three and forty-three, respectively, was the feature of the Victoria attack against the Five C's. Percy Shrimpton, veteran wicket-keeper and "skipper," led the C's scoring, with twenty-one runs. Crees added eighteen, and Nixon and Walton, twelve runs apiece.

C. Jones and P. Austin shared the bowling honors for the winners, taking six wickets for twenty-three, and four wickets for thirty-two, respectively. Oakes bowled well for the losers, dismissing three batsmen for no runs.

CONCLUDE LOCAL SKEET CONTESTS

Members of the Port Angeles Skeet and Gun Club were guests of the local club at the concluding shoot of the season, held on Sunday, at the Albert Head grounds. Five thousand pigeons were trapped in the day's shooting.

J. L. Coffey and A. Gippill, of Port Angeles, topped the visitors' marksmen, while Elsie, Wilson, Eddie Todd and Harry Harris carried off the honors in the local camp.

Coffey took the singles with fifty straight and Gippill captured the handicaps with forty-seven out of fifty.

Wilson knocked down forty-nine out of fifty in winning the singles for local club members, and Todd took the skeet with forty-two out of fifty.

Harry Harris shot forty-five out of fifty to come out on top in the competition for new members.

Captain of village fire brigade (visiting local inn): "Eight pints of beer, ma, an' do ye 'mind bein' to a fink?"

Two of the players, according to Jones, had a better all round game than Gippill. He explained that as he saw the open champion's game, it lacked the variation that she enjoyed, particularly in the use of iron clubs.

Gippill does pound the ball rather hard with lofted clubs. He often uses a No. 5 iron for as much as 180 yards.

He takes pretty full swing with every club.

On the other hand, Sned gradates his swings from the long powerful swing used with his wood clubs down to the short easy stroke around the green. He has what Bob Jones calls "carressing shots."

These shots were an outstanding part of the former champion's game and he would be the first to recognize them in another player's game.

During a recent conversation with Bobby Jones I asked for his opinion about the games of Ralph Guldahl and Sam Sned. Bob told me that he liked Sned's game better than Guldahl's. GEORGE O'BRIEN
IS COWBOY HERO

Popular Star Rides Western Range
Of Racketeers in Oak Bay—
Theatre Thriller

How a big city racketeer and his gang invade a Western range, bunch a reign of terror by destroying property and lives and frightening herds of cattle into stampeding by the use of a plane, are revealed in dramatic fashion in George O'Brien's current outdoor thriller, "Hollywood Cowboy," an RKO Radio picture, coming to the Oak Bay Theatre tonight.

The story exposes the ruthless activities of this band who attempt to force innocent cattlemen into paying for protection against strong-arm practices falsely blamed on a small group of striking cowpunchers.

The gang rules the range with a high hand until George O'Brien, playing a cowboy movie star on the loose, really breaks loose and cleans up the graft-ridden range land.

Forty-Two Pairs to Play in Yarrow Cup Doubles Competition

Leading Lawn Bowlers in Greater Victoria Will Go After Silverware Symbolic of Vancouver Island Championship—Play Starts Saturday

By W. H. YOUNILL

With an entrance of forty-two pairs, about the largest in the history of the competition, the draw for the contest for the Yarrow Cup, to be staged on the greens of the C.P. Lawn Bowling Club, was made last evening, and on Saturday afternoon the opening games will be staged, with the main portion of the schedule being reserved for Monday, Labor Day.

The Yarrow Cup, donated by the well-known shipyard operators of this district, has come to be looked upon as emblematic of the doubles championship of Vancouver Island, and during the six or seven years of its existence it had developed into a keen struggle between the "giants" of lawn bowling, and the list of entries this year assures the exhibition being fully up to it, if not surpassing its predecessors, as each of the city clubs has entered the cream of its talent.

President Belanger and Secretary Dixon of the C.P. Club have been kept busy during the past week making preparations for the event, and declare everything is in readiness to make the meeting a complete success.

ACTION TAKEN FOR NEW ROOF

Y.M.C.A. Committee Empowered to Act on Proposed Improvement

Recommendations of the house committee of the Y.M.C.A., advising extensive improvements to the roof of the building, were accepted in principle by the board of directors at a meeting Tuesday night, and referred to the finance committee with power to act or to withhold action as it saw fit. Definite decision was made to remove the cornice of the building that overhangs Blanshard Street, as it is considered to be unsafe.

The matter of some form of depreciation allowance for the institution was discussed in connection with the Y.M.C.A.'s entry into the Community Chest.

A meeting of the membership committee followed the board session, when final arrangements were made for the Y.M.C.A. booth at the Provincial Exhibition. Plans for the distribution of literature, and more adequate lighting, were endorsed. It was announced that the complete schedule for hours on duty at the booth was available, and was generally similar to that of last year.

The campaign personnel for the telephone check of membership was stated to be almost complete by E. G. Rosebottom, membership committee chairman. The campaign will start with a supper at the Y.M.C.A. a week from Thursday, when names will be distributed to the campaign workers.

Mr. Rosebottom also announced that Grant Peterson, a member of the new Junior High School teaching staff, had been appointed to the committee.

Will Be Busy Scene Next Tuesday

Silent and Apparently Deserted Today. This Will Be a Busy Scene Next Week When the Pupils Return for the Fall Term. Many Will Enter the Doors for the First Time, Eagerly Taking Their Place Among the Ranks of High School Students, a definite Step Forward on the Road of Education.

MERCHANTS READY TO MEET NEEDS OF
SCHOOL CHILDREN

Pupils Will Return to Their Studies Tuesday—
Books, Clothing, Shoes and Bicycles Will Be Required—Victoria Stores Well Stocked to Meet Rush of Buyers

SCHOOL bells will be ringing early next week. All over the country children will be trooping back to the classrooms, fresh from the long vacation. From the tiny tots, whose first venture is into the work and play of school life, to the senior student who has already carved himself a niche in the social scheme of things, all have many needs for the coming term. Tuesday will see the annual rush of children, accompanied by their parents, flocking to the stores to purchase school supplies of all kinds.

Victoria merchants are well prepared for the invasion and a brisk business is anticipated in textbooks, stationery and all the requirements from the draughtsman's tools to the scroller, but none the less essential scribbler, ruler, and eraser.

CLOTHING AND SHOES

Many of the children have just returned from holiday resorts, by lake or seaside, and their wardrobes are sadly in need of replenishment. Last season's clothes have been outgrown or relegated to the rag-bag. Summer wear in all probability consisted of little more than bathing trunks and running shoes. A complete outfit is called for and must be selected within the next few days. Clothes are needed that are smart, yet sturdy enough to resist the wear and tear of active play. The young miss in high school demands the latest style and fashion and many are the attractive models displayed for her choice. Though he would never openly admit it, her brother is now beginning to feel the urge toward sartorial display, and the choice of tie and suit is a matter of more than passing importance. Hence his insistent demand for clothes that the other fellows are wearing."

OPTOMETRISTS BUSY

It is now admitted that the wearing of glasses in youth is often a preventative and curative measure protecting the strength of the youngster's eyesight while he goes through a period of adjustment. Those children who have any suspicion of eyesight must be examined by an optometrist, and those who already wear glasses must have the lenses checked and adjusted to allow for the changing condition of their eyes. This care is absolutely essential for there is nothing more detrimental to the capacity for study than poor eyesight, reacting as it does on the entire system.

BICYCLES WANTED

Sporting goods stores will also have their share of this seasonal business, and they also are prepared for the invasion of purchase-minded youngsters. One of the most important items here is the

MUST LEARN
SAFETY RULE

Letter Tells How One Mother
Enforced Observance of Safety Law

Different characters require different methods when it comes to dealing with children and the growing mind. The following is a letter received by Dr. Myers, head of the department of parent education, Cleveland College, showing the results a harassed mother had attained through use of his advice in child upbringing.

Dear Dr. Myers—Your column first appeared in our paper when my boy was about a year old, and I have tried to follow your advice in his upbringing. We live on a hillside, and, of course, it was vital that he keep out of the street. I had read your ideas about spanking toddlers who transgress safety laws, and the first time I saw him step off the sidewalk—when he was about two years old—I carried him quickly into the house, shut the front door, and did what Dr. Myers said to do, saying to myself, "Now he's cured; this won't happen again." In about a week he and I were again in the front yard, and the group of children on the lawn across the street increased in size. Billy hastened to join them. I flew after him, and this time didn't wait for the scolding of the house—just pulled him good and hard then and there. He is past seven, but never again that I know of has he run into the street to play...

I always feel encouraged and stimulated after reading your column and am so glad you have begun a campaign for calm and peace at home and at school—I have always felt that serene mother and teacher were much better guardians of children's health, dispositions, and even characters, than the people with "pep."

From another mother came the following:

KNOWS RIGHT AND WRONG

This may interest you: I have observed that my year-old baby is beginning to differentiate between right and wrong. When I slap her for doing a specific thing she is forbidden, she merely snifflies for a moment or two, then considers the incident closed. But if I do her an injustice, and punish her for nothing, as has happened a few times, she is inconsolable, and cries ever so hard. It brings home to me again how careful we parents have to be with this tender, green young shoot pushing its way up so hopefully toward the sky, lest we shut off its sunlight.

—Originally, I am glad I started to teach her the meaning of No early. I find it is getting less and less necessary to lay the hand on her, that punishment, or even rebuke needs to be very seldom. She is so conditioned to the word No that it alone is enough to stop her when she may hurt herself, or something else of value.

I also have learned the value of a quiet voice, of overlooking things that don't matter, and of celebrating successes in the child even at this tender age.

HOSPITALITY

A West End comedian went to one of the big London hospitals to give an hour's entertainment to the patients. When he had finished, he said he must dash away at once to change for his show at the theatre. "Oh, come," said the senior surgeon, "you've been very kind to us and we'd like you to have at least a whisky and soda before you go." "I'm afraid I have a time, thank you." "Well, a cigar, then?" "No, thank you." "Oh, hang it, you must have something with us. Have a leg of it."

BETTER LIGHT
BETTER SIGHT

And Better Reports!

Contrary to most parental opinion, poor homework is usually caused not by laziness but by bad light. Often a small improvement in the lighting shows a big improvement in the work. Be sure your children are not handicapped by bad light! Better light means better sight . . . and better work.

CHILD MUST OBEY SIMPLE SAFETY LAWS

Chief T. Heatley Stresses Importance of Teaching Traffic Rules

With the return of children to school, Chief of Police Thomas Heatley calls on every parent and guardian to cooperate in the drive for greater safety for children on the streets and highway. The child must be taught to be safety conscious at all times and must have a complete knowledge of the rules of the road. It is a lesson which will not only protect them in the present but which will stand them in good stead in years to come when they attain an age to drive a car of their own.

It is their first contact with the forces of law and order. They must realize that these rules are laid down for their safety, and it is their duty to obey. The most careful driver on the road is helpless to avoid accidents, if the children refuse their co-operation.

Chief Heatley has drawn up a few simple rules that every child should know, observance of which will go far to lessen the tally of accidents in which children receive serious injuries or worse.

ELEVEN RULES

These condensed rules follow:

1. Children are warned not to get into conversation with strange men, and under no circumstances to accept rides in motor cars offered by strangers.

2. Do not be enticed by strange men who offer candy and money to go walking. These men are dangerous, and must at all times be avoided.

3. Children must be careful when entering or leaving the school grounds; look both ways before leaving the sidewalk.

4. Children, when riding their bicycles, must keep to the extreme right of the road, and must not ride on the sidewalk.

5. Children, when riding bicycles, must not hang on to street cars or other vehicles; it is a dangerous practice.

6. It is a dangerous practice for two children to ride on one bicycle.

7. Children, when riding their bicycles, should not ride too near to the rear or side of a street car or other vehicle.

8. Children must be careful when entering or leaving the school grounds; look both ways before leaving the sidewalk.

9. Children, when riding their bicycles, must keep to the extreme right of the road, and must not ride on the sidewalk.

10. Children, when riding bicycles, should not do any jay-walking at intersections.

11. Children, when riding bicycles, should never ride more than two abreast, and a single file on narrow roads.

BRADFORD BISHOP LEAVES

MONTRÉAL, Sept. 1 (CP)—Forced by illness to cancel his planned lecture tour in Canada, Rt. Rev. W. F. Blunt, Bishop of Bradford, will sail for home from Quebec Friday on the liner Duchess of York.

One of the most amusing of the Fall printed dresses is one that we saw called the "Blame Song." The print was inspired by the still popular ditty, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Splash it all over the dress are bubble pipes for blowing them, cuffs and collar like bubbles blowing the fragile, colored spheres over the place.

But we're forgetting the problem of what to buy for boy school wear. Well, we've never found anything more durable or more generally satisfactory than corduroy knickers. They're washable and they'll take more punishment than any early Christian martyr.

words and frowned—"until you have the hem in your hands. Then hold it."

Polly thought: "What does he mean 'on the beach'?" But she saw his warning frown as he walked to the light switch and snapped off the lights. Polly put her arms around Sheila's legs—feeling unexplainably foolish—and drew her arms back until her hands clutched the hem of the frock.

And suddenly she saw Tod standing on one foot, watching, listening, wondering. She jumped up. "Bedtime," she said, and led him to the stairs.

When Polly and Tod had disappeared up the stairs, Sheila pulled a chair around and sat down. "And now, what's the mystery all about, Jerry?"

Jerry looked at her and little lights danced in his brown eyes. "You've knocked everything completely out of my head," he said smiling. "Everything but the wonder of a blue-eyed girl in a blue frock that exactly matches the color of her eyes."

Sheila laughed softly. "You've certainly taken your time to pretend you're impressed. I was quite serious about wearing this frock for your benefit. But I never got a tumble."

The light in Jerry's eyes went out. Then the half smile faded. After a moment he said, "Can I rely on your confidence, Sheila?"

A shadow passed over her lovely face. Obviously, she had hoped he would follow up her last remark and she was disappointed that he had not. But she said evenly, "You know you can."

He proceeded then to make up the most outrageous falsehood.

GARRULITY MAY BECOME HABIT

Parents' Help Necessary to Check Over-Talkativeness From Nervousness

We all know, and often to our grief, the kind of person who will talk many times longer to recount a personal experience than was originally covered by the actual incident. No details are omitted, and the conversation of the persons involved is quoted, even that of one relating the experience. "He said, '———' I said, '———' And the tiresome quotations indicated by the foregoing blanks. This tendency at introducing boresome, unessential details. Professor William James described years ago as a partial redintegration—and about as wearisome as his big words.

Here let us say that many a youth, many a parent indeed, who is very self-conscious and timid, may be afflicted with this habit, without ever having known it. In order to gain relief, let him practice while alone at telling directly, even writing occasionally, in the fewest possible words, an account of incidents he would ordinarily tell, and then let him tell them at the first opportunity.

There are a few persons on the other hand, who are uninteresting because they don't give enough details; they are too brief.

At least one smart manufacturer this Fall is putting out ensemble clothes for sister and her small brother . . . sister's dress for instance in wine-colored pique with white collar and cuffs and small brother's suit in the same fabric and color combination. Cute?

Nothing is quite so engaging for the high school girl as two-piece affairs. She should have at least two good skirts, one in a plain color and another of plaid or stripe. There are any number of nautical little blouses and sailor brief jackets that can be worn with the skirts. Fashion again dictates pleated skirts. This is tough on the cleaning and pressing bill, but certainly entrancing on the particular jeans file of your family.

One of the most amusing of the Fall printed dresses is one that we saw called the "Blame Song." The print was inspired by the still popular ditty, "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles." Splash it all over the dress are bubble pipes for blowing them, cuffs and collar like bubbles blowing the fragile, colored spheres over the place.

But we're forgetting the problem of what to buy for boy school wear. Well, we've never found anything more durable or more generally satisfactory than corduroy knickers. They're washable and they'll take more punishment than any early Christian martyr.

Unless she so learns to short-cut in making a report or getting an experience, she will be greatly handicapped in her every-day social contacts all her life.

"Now, Polly," Jerry instructed, "sit on the floor at Sheila's feet and when I snap out the lights, put your arms around her legs and go through the same motions you did on the beach—" he stressed the style.

"Jane Dixon Says:

ROUND-UP COMES BUT ONCE A WEEK AND THIS IS THE DAY! NO HARM IN RIDING IN FRONT SEAT WITH MARRIED COUPLE—MISS FIFTEEN TOO EMOTIONAL—A WORD ABOUT CORPORAL PUNISHMENT.

"Mobile—Your parents "fuss" with you because you ride "three in a seat with a married couple," the wife driving. The husband drives in the middle. He behaved like a gentleman. You behaved like a lady. So what? I can see nothing "wrong" in the seating arrangement since it was merely companionable. The back seat would have been more comfortable, but there is no more "right" in it than there is in the front seat. It is what do that makes us right or wrong, not where we sit. A girl in her twenties should be left to settle her pleasures her own way, no long as they are innocent pleasures. I can understand why you are not happy in a home where a wrong or a bad interpretation is given to everything you say or do. Try to make your parents understand how and why you resent their nagging and why you prefer the homes of your friends to the home they provide for you.

WISDOM NEEDED

Sincerely, You are entirely too emotional about your admiration for the man of mature years, Miss Fifteen. It would be presumptuous of you to go to his home and pour out your adolescent emotion in a rushing stream. Show your appreciation of him and his help by thankfulness and indifference. Try to make him feel the most possible benefit from his advice. I can't see how you would gain peace of mind by embarrassing a fine man who is your friend and your counselor. You would embarrass him by spelling over your youthful hero-worship, you may be sure. Don't pray for a chance to make a nuisance of yourself. Pray for wisdom to make you as understanding as your model friend.

Father of Three—No, sir. I do not subscribe to the "spare the rod and spoil the child" theory. Corporal punishment—heats fear, and fear is a destructive, never a constructive, agent. When a child obeys through fear his obedience is harmful both to himself and to the parent who punishes him, for it weakens the bond of trust and of affection between them. To inflict pain on any living creature that is helpless to defend itself against superior strength is not only cruel but it is cowardly to the nth degree.

Deprive your children of some of the privileges or the pleasures they enjoy when they fail to obey you. Not a child, however unruly, but reacts more readily to deprivation than to the rod.

THE SIMPLE TRUTH

Shy Bachelor—Nothing ventured, nothing gained. You do not expect the young lady to propose to you do you? Forget all about the embroilery on your invitation to marriage and think about the simple thrilling truth. To a woman in love, the seven most potent and most powerful words in the language of life are "I love you." Do you mean me?" Acute shyness, stumbling, self-consciousness is egotism in an advanced state. Surely you can put yourself aside long enough to speak to the woman you love the seven words that make the world go round.

Elaine—You love your parents alike and want to please them both. Then why not divide your raving between them? Neither mother nor father could honestly feel you were being partial by such a division. Try this solution and see. If fair treatment does not make your problem easier,

Stocks Go Down In Sinking Spell On Wall Street

NEW YORK. Sept. 1 (P) — Led by steel, the stock market suffered another sinking spell today, declining fractions to 3 or more points.

U.S. Steel, second most active issue, lost 4 1/2 at 104 1/4. Pressure on this and other steels was prompted, Wall Street men said, by the not-too-cheerful midweek report of Iron Age.

Construction has been declining and new projects in sight do not promise near-term recovery, while railroad buying of importance has failed to develop, the review noted.

In the background of these more or less specific explanations for the market's lethargy and lack of energy, analysts cited as bearish factors recent declines in commodity indications. Far Eastern strife might be long protracted and fears in some quarters higher retail prices may check the speed of retail turnover in some lines.

Transactions totaled 818,910 shares against 903,710 Tuesday.

The bond market dropped today with railroad obligations and selected convertible issues under pressure. Losses of fractions to around 4 points on light dealings were numerous.

The Associated Press average for twenty rails showed a decline of 1 1/2 of a point to 89 6.

Foreign dollar obligations faltered. Japanese issues were lower and Polish and some South American loans softened.

What Today Means

"VIRGO"

If September 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m., from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., and from 10:30 p.m. until midnight.

Acting on one's own responsibility in matters involving the interests of someone else, may prove to be an inadvisable risk today. Give free rein to your tongue and trouble will probably follow. Indecision may lead to half-way measures being taken to correct mistakes, errors of judgment, or some injustice, with the consequence that the final outcome is apt to be disappointing. Give everyone what is rightfully theirs, without restrictions, and without fear of criticism, if you expect to have a thoroughly satisfactory day. It will be advisable to ascertain if the time you might select for some social activity will be convenient for whoever is expected to participate in it. Lack of consideration of the average person's time today is a fault that must be avoided, for an evidence of resentment is likely to be most apparent. Married and engaged couples, as well as those planning a matrimonial future together, will be wise to remember that an embarrassing question seldom produces a satisfactory reply, so it is a good policy not to ask it.

If a woman, and September 2 is your birthday, you may have or will discover some method of working out your personal problems, in a highly satisfactory manner. You ought to have an exceptionally good mind, which is susceptible to being developed along cultural lines. Be careful you do not clog it with the residue accumulations gathered through the indiscriminate selection of books. People born on this date ought to select their literature and friends with the greatest of care. You must also take an active interest in social activities if you are to make the proper progress along progressive lines. As an actress, artist teacher, businesswoman, author, or librarian, your future ought to be assured. All of your matrimonial prospects indicate your married life will be a success.

The child born on September 2 may, during its school days, show an aptitude for only certain lines of study, in which it is likely to excel. A liberal education will probably be gained more from outside contacts than the classroom's prosaic routine.

If a man, and September 2 is your natal day, your ability to rise above reverses should enable you to succeed. As a clergymen, author, actor, mechanic, inventor, lawyer, architect, educator, or commercial agent, you can have great expectations.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

IS CANCER INCREASING?

The question is often asked: "Will a cure for cancer ever be found?"

Thousands of research scientists are constantly at work and millions of dollars are spent annually in the earnest endeavor to find its cause.

Yet within the past few years as we have seen diseases formerly as fatal (diabetes, pernicious anemia and others) held in check we must believe that so much has been learned about what does not cause cancer that the real cause should be found within reasonable time.

Physicians who deal with figures point out that as cancer is a disease of middle and old age and the life span has been greatly lengthened, towns have what appears to be an

during the past few years, many abnormally high rate is because more individuals live to middle age and old age and thus there are that many more to be attacked by cancer which increases the total number.

More persons are living to the cancer age than ever before because they have been saved from the epidemic diseases of childhood and at a normal rate, suddenly begin to grow at a much faster rate to make up for lost time and there is thus an overgrowth of cells which we may call cancer. The distinguishing point about cancer is not only the great increase in number of cells, but the "disorderly" not orderly, way in which they grow.

If the "something" can be discovered which irritates and starts these cells to grow so fast and so disorderly, then the cause of cancer will be found.

Fortunately cancer is not contagious. In the meantime the warning signs of these worthy organizations that are fighting cancer should be remembered because the early signs of cancer may be overlooked.

These signs are:

1. A persistent pain in stomach, abdomen, and chronic "indigestion."

In those of middle age or past middle age.

2. A "sore" on the skin that does not heal.

3. Bleeding from any source—bowel, bladder, uterus.

4. A lump in the breast or other part of the body.
